

Mark Your Calendars:

The Nicomekl Rowing Club and Delta Deas Rowing Club have teamed up for a weekend of spectacular head racing.

Nicomekl Head of the River Saturday, September 25

Likened to the Head of the Charles in length and twists, the annual Nicomekl Head of the River is a 6-km race down the winding and beautiful Nicomekl River offering a tactic challenge for cox/bow and crew..

There is a 'class' race in the morning, followed by a 'trophy' race in the afternoon. With crews handicapped to determine the overall Head of the River winner.

After Party and Results

Your entry fee includes a dinner to enjoy while celebrating winners of the day and some great memories

Delta Deas Head of the Reach Sunday, September 26

A challenging 6-km race passing the quaint float homes of Ladner Reach, under the Deas Tunnel access bridge, and into the Deas Slough, the most coveted and protected rowing waters in the Pacific Northwest.

Try to keep your head in the boat as you row past swans, herons and seals, while bald eagles and kingfishers soar overhead.

Before You Race

Because we want you to be well prepared for your race, we'll feed you well (and well before) with a pancake breakfast hosted by the Delta Deas Rowing Club.

For USA and Island visitors, the Head of the River will start and the Head of the Reach will finish with ferry schedules and travel times in mind. Trailers may be parked overnight.

Rowing for the Cure

Together with Kamloop's Rowing for the Cure event, find yourself a sponsor and Nicomekl and Delta Deas will gratefully accept donations on behalf of Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation.

Registration

Both the Head of the River and Head of the Reach are $28 per person per day.
Register on line at Regatta Central: www.regattacentral.com

For More Information

Nicomekl Head of the River
www.nico-row.com
email Shelley Fletcher
shelley_fletcher@telus.net

Delta Head of the Reach
www.deltadeas.com
email Julie Stevens
julie.stevens@deltadeas.com